The sweet home is always there deep inside the heart of every living individual. Having one's home is an old dream, as old as this universe. I am from the western part of India .It is a small city called Darjeeling.It is like hill area with cold climate and with different religions.my city is famous for tea garden and tourist center too.My home is not to big not too samll.It is surrounded by lots of different types of flowers.my home is like a place where a people lives,spends much of his time,orfells generally comfortable with all.
