Constitution in action
Mock events show Fourth Amendment

Kodie Butterfield
Staff Writer

Students witnessed a K-9 drug bust, a gun threat and a computer-based bomb scare at DMACC on Sept. 19 as a part of the college’s “Constitution Days.” Three officers performed the mock demonstrations inside and outside of the Courter Center at DMACC with the help of three students.

During the first presentation student Kevin Langel had his vehicle searched by Boone’s K-9 drug dog named Schocker and the dog’s human counterpart Officer Mike Frazier.

“It was interesting to see the dog in action. I’ve never seen something like that before,” said Langel, who also serves as editor in chief of the Banner News. The demonstration allowed students to get a first-hand look at the process of an officer with a K-9 searching a vehicle suspected of containing drugs.

The officer used a towel that had been soaked in drugs to allow the scent to be strong enough so that the dog could sniff it from outside the vehicle. Frazier also spoke about the relationship between him and Schocker while also informing students about their rights under the Fourth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

During the second presentation, the action moved inside the Courter Center, where Lt. Jeff Brinkley from the Ames Police Department demonstrated students’ rights during a mock backpack search. The student volunteer Lindsay Ball was described as “a person who matched the description of someone reportedly with a concealed weapon on their person.” While searching the bag, Brinkley also found a bag containing what appeared to be a powder substance to simulate drugs.

He described the rights of a student and the process for charging her for the drugs, even though he wasn’t looking directly for them.

The second part of this demonstration was Capt. Aaron DeLashmutt from the Iowa State University Police Department, who “caught” a student, Alayna Barnett, on her computer possibly looking up how to make a bomb. Barnett refused to allow DeLashmutt access to her computer, which allowed for an open discussion on her rights to refuse consenting to an electronic search.

“Constitution Days” are a legal requirement for colleges and universities to present to students. They are used as a way to teach students about their rights under the Constitution. This year’s Boone DMACC campus committee representative was Jan LaVille, English professor and director of the Honors Program, who helped to organize and decide the process for this year’s events.

Julie Roosa, journalism professor and law instructor, was another staff representative who helped to organize the events. “During the summer they talked about ways to show the Fourth Amendment in action,” Roosa said. “It’s important to know your rights for searches and seizure under the Constitution.”

Various events were held throughout the week of Sept. 19-23 on DMACC campuses in honor of Constitution Day. Drawings were also held for students in attendance.

And the winner is...
The following students won prizes during Boone DMACC Constitution Day Sept. 19: iPod Touch: Dillon Ruipiper 2 GB Flash Drive: Mackenzie Koehler, Amanda Blair, Jessica Mayfield, Michele Porter

DMACC’s own dodge, dip, duck, dive and dodge

By Jessica Kinnetz
Staff Writer

DMACC students gathered together Sept. 21 to play in a dodge ball tournament.

Many teams have prepared a short time for this. Some went out and put together uniforms, some watched the movie “Dodge Ball” and ate junk food, or did absolutely nothing at all. But all in all had a great time playing.

The teams correlated uniforms from colored headbands to same type of shirts and hats and some students even wore war paint on their faces.

Students really got into playing and was very high energy set of games with very tough competition.

“I was very fun and I enjoyed it a lot!” said first year student Kenzi Atott.

“The best three teams played a game of dodge ball and it was a very fun game,” said Justin Roeell.

You would see nothing but sweat, bruises, smiles and great memories from everyone that attended this event.

Dodgeball winners: Jeremy Shaefler, Bo Cosens, Garrett Alt and Nate Schill

“Thanks to all who participated in our largest turnout for evening dodgeball. 11 teams (44 participants) competed.”

– Steve Krafsin, SAC Adviser

via campus email Sept. 22
Campus says yes to ‘No Impact Man’

By Stacey Walker
Copy Editor

This semester’s campuswide book selection will be Colin Beav- an’s “No Impact Man,” the story of a man who makes personal sacrifices in his everyday life in order to raise his self-awareness in different social and environmen- tal aspects.

DMACC English Professor Sam Pritchard is including the book in his class syllabus. The program gives wonderful oppor- tunities for students to engage in thought-provoking reflections and hopefully reconsider their own lifestyles.

—Publishers Weekly

“The No Impact Experiment changed Colin Beavan and reading No Impact Man will change you.”

—Annie Leonard, creator of “The Story of Stuff”

Reviews of “No Impact Man”

“Beavan captures his own shortcomings with candor and wit and offers surprising revelations . . . [Readers] will mull over his thought-provoking reflections and hopefully reconsider their own lifestyles.” —Publishers Weekly

“The No Impact Experiment changed Colin Beavan and reading No Impact Man will change you.”

—Annie Leonard, creator of “The Story of Stuff”

Building peace

By Kevin Langel
Editor in Chief

While many people wish for world peace, Dorothy Maver, Ph.D., works to actually try to grant those wishes. Maver presented “Living for a Sustainable Future” at the Boone Campus on Sept. 13.

This presentation was a part of the 11 Days of Global Unity, which was held from Sept. 11 to 21.

“Many people are working hard because they want to make the world a better place to live,” Maver said. Although there were few in att- endance, Maver was able to get the audience involved by asking them questions about what it will take to be able to tell a different story on our planet. Maver also got the audience to participate by asking them ques- tions about what they could do to help contribute to world peace.

Student Lacy Stevenson re- sponded, “Be nice.” Maver agreed that simply starting with our own actions toward one an- other is a good place to start. “We are interconnected, but we haven’t lived that way,” said Mav- er. “In many ways, we are com- petitive. It is up to us to be able to tell a different story.”

Maver is the president of the National Peace Academy, which is bringing a focus on peacebuilding and peacelearning in the United States. She has been an educator, facilitator of courses and workshops for community members to plan and implement their ideas for change.

New policy for registration

By Tasha Rohrer
Staff Writer

As the school year begins, students will notice a change in the registration policy.

In previous semesters, stu- dents were able to register for classes up to two weeks after the start of the semester. Now stu- dents needed to have registered by the last day of the first week of classes – this semester that date was Aug. 31. The policy does not affect the late start classes. “The change is going to be positive; it will be better for the students,” said Rita Davenport, a DMACC counselor.

The revised policy is de- signed to “encourage students to be better prepared to start their studies, and this includes register- ing in time to begin their classes on time,” according to an an- nouncement posted Aug. 24 on the DMACC home page.

Davenport said the change was put in place because often students who add late weren’t succeeding to their full potential. The college wanted to create a more fair and even level in the classroom. “To be honest I don’t really care about the change in policy, it doesn’t affect me,” Student Tay- lor Bink’s responded to ques- tions about late registration.

While Bimbi may not be af- fected, other students who expe- rience unforeseen troubles with school may find the policy incon- venient.

In extreme cases, Provost Tom Lee may be able to make an exception, Davenport said.

She urged students to give the policy a chance. It may take time to understand, she said, but in the long run it will be better for students.

Davenport recommends stu- dents come to her office or speak with the provost, if they have any problems.

“Students, please come in with any concerns you have,” Davenport said. “All of us are here to help you.”

Loca- tore’s Handbook” by Leeda Meredith, and “Go Green, Live Rich” by David Bach.

The Campus Book Store will not be selling copies of the book this semester.

“It amazes me that we only get the book if our course re- quires it, I was looking forward to reading this year’s selection,” said Angela Leopold. Many students seemed less likely to participate in the program this year because they have to purchase something that had been provided for them in years past.

DMACC has already taken steps to decrease its carbon foot- print. The campus has a recycling program and the Ankeny campus installed a wind turbine last No- vember.
Bear Briefs

Time Management

Unique workshop from Anna Kielso offering ideas to help students juggle school, work, and life. Free admittance with no registration required Sept. 28 from 12:20 till 1:15 PM.

Shot of Reality

The Student Activity Council is sponsoring an alcohol wellness presentation over the realities and side effects of alcohol in the auditorium Sept. 29 from 11:00 till 1:00 PM.

$1 Movie Theatre Night

The Boone Theatre on Story St. will be host to a 7:00 PM movie showing for only a dollar on Sept. 29. For dollar admission students must bring their DMACC ID or class schedule and faculty and staff should bring some other form of identification.

Intramural Volleyball

Serve

Teams will meet in the gym and participate in 4 events on Oct. 5 from 10:30 AM till Noon. Teams will receive a free intramurals t-shirt.

Phi Beta Lambda

Meeting

Phi Beta Lambda or the Future Leaders of America Boon chapter will be meeting in the Courter Center on Oct. 5 at 11:15 AM. For questions over PBL’s activities or how to get involved, contact Linda Pfluger at ljplueger@dmacc.edu.

SAC Meeting

There will be a Student Activities Council meeting on Oct. 5 at 1:30 PM. Contact Steve Krafcsin at sjkrafcisin@dmacc.edu.

Journalism Boot Camp

For students interested in pursuing journalism, either currently enrolled in a journalism class or not, can register for the Des Moines Register hosted “boot camp” on Oct. 6. Registration is $20 and can be done at www.INAnews.com, registration deadline is Sept. 29. Participants will also receive several guides and books on style and journalism in Iowa.

Start Somewhere Walk

On Oct. 7 Iowa kicks off the Healthiest State Initiative with a 1 kilometer walk in an attempt to become a healthier state, currently ranked 19 out of 50 when it comes to physical, emotional, and mental health. Steve Krafcsin will be coordinating the Boone chapter’s walk. Those interested will meet at the Student Center at noon and walk Hancock Drive to the dead end, if it rains, the walk will take place in the gym.

Fall Graduation

Applications for graduation must be submitted to the Credentials/Graduation Office at the Ankeny Campus by Oct. 1.

Punch-A-Lunch Card

Students should not forget that PML cards are available in the cafeteria. The cards offer the opportunity to save up to 10% on purchases when bought or re-charged. Each increment of $10.00 leads to $1.00 added as a credit yielding up to 10% free food.

Banner Writers Needed, Work Study

The Banner News is still hiring for staff positions for the fall 2011 semester. If you think this opportunity is for you then please contact Julie Roosa at jkroosa@dmacc.edu.

Sign Up for DMACC Pep Band

New comers welcome. Rehearsals start Oct. 4 with rehearsals every Tuesday evening from 6:00 till 7:15 PM in room 116.

Writing In a Quiet Place

Monday through Friday in room 170, all day, students are welcome to the writing center. Contact Krystal Hering, khering@dmacc.edu for an appointment.

Punch-A-Lunch Card

Students should not forget that PML cards are available in the cafeteria. The cards offer the opportunity to save up to 10% on purchases when bought or re-charged. Each increment of $10.00 leads to $1.00 added as a credit yielding up to 10% free food.

Banner Writers Needed, Work Study

The Banner News is still hiring for staff positions for the fall 2011 semester. If you think this opportunity is for you then please contact Julie Roosa at jkroosa@dmacc.edu.

Sign Up for DMACC Pep Band

New comers welcome. Rehearsals start Oct. 4 with rehearsals every Tuesday evening from 6:00 till 7:15 PM in room 116.

Writing In a Quiet Place

Monday through Friday in room 170, all day, students are welcome to the writing center. Contact Krystal Hering, khering@dmacc.edu for an appointment.

Intramural Soccer Kick

Teams will meet on the front lawn and participate in 4 events on Oct. 12 from 10:30 AM till Noon. Teams will receive a free intramurals t-shirt.

News

9.28.2011
Page 3

Events Calendar

Bear Briefs

Time Management

Unique workshop from Anna Kielso offering ideas to help students juggle school, work, and life. Free admittance with no registration required Sept. 28 from 12:20 till 1:15 PM.

Shot of Reality

The Student Activity Council is sponsoring an alcohol wellness presentation over the realities and side effects of alcohol in the auditorium Sept. 29 from 11:00 till 1:00 PM.

$1 Movie Theatre Night

The Boone Theatre on Story St. will be host to a 7:00 PM movie showing for only a dollar on Sept. 29. For dollar admission students must bring their DMACC ID or class schedule and faculty and staff should bring some other form of identification.

Intramural Volleyball Serve

Teams will meet in the gym and participate in 4 events on Oct. 5 from 10:30 AM till Noon. Teams will receive a free intramurals t-shirt.

Phi Beta Lambda Meeting

Phi Beta Lambda or the Future Leaders of America Boon chapter will be meeting in the Courter Center on Oct. 5 at 11:15 AM. For questions over PBL’s activities or how to get involved, contact Linda Pfluger at ljplueger@dmacc.edu.

SAC Meeting

There will be a Student Activities Council meeting on Oct. 5 at 1:30 PM. Contact Steve Krafcsin at sjkrafcisin@dmacc.edu.

Journalism Boot Camp

For students interested in pursuing journalism, either currently enrolled in a journalism class or not, can register for the Des Moines Register hosted “boot camp” on Oct. 6. Registration is $20 and can be done at www.INAnews.com, registration deadline is Sept. 29. Participants will also receive several guides and books on style and journalism in Iowa.

Start Somewhere Walk

On Oct. 7 Iowa kicks off the Healthiest State Initiative with a 1 kilometer walk in an attempt to become a healthier state, currently ranked 19 out of 50 when it comes to physical, emotional, and mental health. Steve Krafcsin will be coordinating the Boone chapter’s walk. Those interested will meet at the Student Center at noon and walk Hancock Drive to the dead end, if it rains, the walk will take place in the gym.

Run for the Roses

The 25th anniversary run will be held on Oct. 9 and will benefit research for arthritis. Both the 5 kilometer run and walk 10 K run will be held at the Ames Middle School on Montmoreland Road. Registration is $15 and you get an omlette breakfast, a long sleeve t-shirt, and a red rose.

Lunch & Learn

The presentation will be held in room 171 by Connie Buss at 11:15 till 12:20 PM on Oct. 10. Buss is a diabetes educator at the Boone County Hospital and will educate those in attendance about diabetes. The lunch served will be the regular $2 sac lunch, which will have additional “sac lunch” which will have to be purchased by emailing at dmacc.edu or calling at 515-433-5078.

Funny T-Shirts & Photos

Funny t-shirts and photos will be held in the Courter Center on Oct. 12 from 9:00 AM till 3:00 PM.

Intramural Soccer Kick

Teams will meet on the front lawn and participate in 4 events on Oct. 12 from 10:30 AM till Noon. Teams will receive a free intramurals t-shirt.

Fall Graduation

Applications for graduation must be submitted to the Credentials/Graduation Office at the Ankeny Campus by Oct. 1.

Punch-A-Lunch Card

Students should not forget that PML cards are available in the cafeteria. The cards offer the opportunity to save up to 10% on purchases when bought or re-charged. Each increment of $10.00 leads to $1.00 added as a credit yielding up to 10% free food.

Banner Writers Needed, Work Study

The Banner News is still hiring for staff positions for the fall 2011 semester. If you think this opportunity is for you then please contact Julie Roosa at jkroosa@dmacc.edu.

Sign Up for DMACC Pep Band

New comers welcome. Rehearsals start Oct. 4 with rehearsals every Tuesday evening from 6:00 till 7:15 PM in room 116.

Writing In a Quiet Place

Monday through Friday in room 170, all day, students are welcome to the writing center. Contact Krystal Hering, khering@dmacc.edu for an appointment.

Intramural Soccer Kick

Teams will meet on the front lawn and participate in 4 events on Oct. 12 from 10:30 AM till Noon. Teams will receive a free intramurals t-shirt.

Events Calendar

Sep. 28: Baseball

Grand View

3:00 PM

Boone, IA

Sep. 28: Volleyball

Iowa Lakes*

7:00 PM

Eastville, IA

Sept. 29: Volleyball

Indian Hills

7:00 PM

Ottumwa, IA

Sept. 29: Baseball

Boone, IA

3:00 PM

Sept. 29: Softball

Iowa Central CC

3:30 PM

Fort Dodge, IA

Sept. 30: Golf

AB Eagle Invite

Neosho/9:00 AM

Highland Park GC

Ponca, IA

Oct. 1: Softball

Indian Hills Triangular

Neosho

Oct. 1: Golf

AB Eagle Invite

Neosho/9:00 AM

Highland Park GC

Ponca, IA

Oct. 1: Cross Country

Serve

10:30-Noon PM

Gym

Oct. 2: Baseball

Grand View

3:00 PM

Des Moines, IA

Oct. 3: Baseball

DMACC Tournament

2:00 & 6:00 PM

Boone, IA

Oct. 4: Volleyball

Ellsworth

7:00 PM

Iowa Falls, IA

Oct. 5: Volleyball

Serve

10:30-Noon PM

Gym

Oct. 5: Baseball

DMACC Tournament

3:00 PM

Des Moines, IA

Oct. 7: Volleyball

DMACC Tournament

2:00 & 6:00 PM

Boone, IA

Oct. 8: Volleyball

DMACC Tournament

10:00 AM & 2:00 PM

Boone, IA

Oct. 8: Cross Country

Dan Huston Invitational

TBA

Waverly, IA

Oct. 12: Soccer Kick

Serve

10:30-Noon PM

Gym
Construction work works on students’ nerves

By Cody Arndt
Staff Writer

The Iowa Department of Transportation’s resident construction engineer, Greg Mulder, anticipates that the construction 5 miles east of campus on highway 30 will be wrapped up by the middle of November. “After the current construction is finished on the roadway there won’t be any more for the rest of the year,” Mulder said. “Not in that section of the highway anyway.”

The construction began early this summer due to the relative aging and deterioration of the road. Construction work stretches from exits 137 to 142. Since the summer months, progress has continued while traffic remains at a snail’s pace.

For students of the Des Moines Area Community College at the Boone Campus currently living in Ames, this can make commuting west quite a nuisance. “It’s a hassle you have to leave for class 30 minutes before class starts,” said Campustown resident Dustin Belmonte, of both his early morning and late afternoon classes. Often times opposing traffic sharing the roadway due to road construction can cause collisions. For Ames commuters, the amount of incidents has been low. “There have been a couple minor fender benders,” said Mulder, “but that’s likely when there is construction on any road.”

As long as drivers remain prudent driving the speed limit with no serious accidents, construction will continue at its current pace and will be finished in time for the holidays.

DMACC steps up to join statewide walk Oct. 7

By Lori Harvey
Health Writer

To kick off this statewide initiative, on Oct. 7 at noon, there is a 1 kilometer health walk that is being held statewide. For Boone, this health walk starts at the DMACC campus. There is no need to sign up, just show up. “We will head east on Hancock Drive to the dead end, then turn around and come back,” says Jan Laville, a DMACC English professor who is helping to organize the event. This will be just over a mile-long walk. “If it’s raining, we will walk in the gym.”

This statewide walk is also going for a record for the Guinness World Book of Records. If 250,000 people walk in this event statewide then it would become the largest number of people walking at the same time for the same purpose in a single day. “We’re facing some very serious health issues in this country and certainly in Iowa,” Ruth Comer, a Hy-Vee spokesperson said. “The walk symbolizes a starting point. You have to start somewhere.”

Two-thirds of Iowans are considered overweight or obese, with related chronic health conditions such as diabetes, cancer and heart disease.

The Gallup-Healthways Well-Being Index ranked Iowa 34th in healthy behavior and 38th in work environment of all 50 states. Iowa is ranked 19th in Well Being Overall. Iowa is also ranked 9th in physical health and 8th in emotional health. Those are among the measures that will be monitored as Iowa seeks to improve its ranking.

Gov. Terry Branstad has put out the call for all Iowans to strive to have Iowa become the healthiest state in the nation. When you improve your physical health, you have better mental and emotional well being. For more information visit www.startsomewherewalk.com to sign up, pledge to become healthy and help Iowa become the healthiest state in the nation.

Steve Krafcisin, DMACC women’s basketball coach, is the contact for the DMACC campus. He can be reached via e-mail at sjkrafcisin@dmacc.edu.

Up and Downs of DMACC Life

Cole Martin and Madison Mickelson climb the rock wall that was on campus on Sept. 21. This event was sponsored by the Iowa National Guard.

Photo by Jessica Kinnetz

One of the posters in the Courter Center on Sept. 26 that the first semester nursing students put together.

Photo by Kevin Langel
Bears Battle Rival Eagles

By Jessica Kinnetz
Staff Writer

The 12th ranked DMACC Bears battled 7th-ranked rivals Kirkwood Sept. 21, losing a close match in a three to five game victory for the Eagles.

“We had every opportunity to win that match,” said Coach Patty Harris. “We should’ve won.”

The Bears and Eagles battled back and forth for all five matches.

The Eagles came out on top of the first match with a 23-25. And the Bears rallied back the second match with 25-18. In the third was just as close as the first with Kirkwood leading 23-25. DMACC came back again with 25-22, but lost the last match in an intense battle ending the Eagles closing the gap with 15-17.

“Our passing wasn’t on target, we just gave them the opportunities to come back,” Harris said. “We gave them two five-point runs and you can’t do that.”

Harris gave credit to her team for their comeback from the loss of the first game to dominate the second. She said the third game was close and “we didn’t give up and that’s a positive thing. We had them down and we let them back in, that’s part of our growing pains.”

A rotation of nine freshman in the team of 15 have been playing together since Aug. 15. The team record is 13-4 and 1-1 in the conference as of Sept. 21.

Harris said Kirkwood was better at the little things and they have some good sophomores. Harris called the loss very disappointing “but we learned something. We need games like this to lose-to get better.”

Olivia Fisher goes up for the hit. Jordan Leehy (right) prepares to defend the net.

CROSS COUNTRY

DMACC- The DMACC women’s cross country team turned in its best outing of the season at the Iowa Intercollegiate Cross Country Championships Sept. 17 at Ames.

The Bears scored 84 points and finished third behind Iowa State University (ISU) and Mount Mercy College in the team competition. ISU took the title with 15 points and Mount Mercy scored 56 in placing second. Iowa Western Community College (IWCC) finished fourth with 99 points.

Freshman Allana Lauck of Altoona and sophomore Katie Clark of Ames led DMACC. Lauck finished the 5K (3.1-mile) race with a time of 20 minutes, 50 seconds, placing 10th, and Clark was 11th in 20:31. Their times are the second and third best 5K times ever recorded for DMACC.

Sophomore Christine Allen of Knoxville and freshmen Brooke Schweikert of Ames and Kirstin Angus of West Des Moines finished 20th, 21st and 22nd respectively. Allen and Schweikert were timed in 22:10 and Angus finished in 22:11.

Freshman Anna-Kate Bruns of Creston Rapids was forced to withdraw from the race after aggravating a toe injury.

“This was a great day and a great run for our team,” DMACC women’s cross country coach Jim Due said. “We beat Iowa Western and they will be some of our toughest competition at the regional meet.”

The DMACC women’s cross country team is idle until Oct. 1 when it competes in the Tiger Invitational at Marshalltown.

RESULTS

1) Iowa State University
2) Mount Mercy
3) Des Moines CC
4) Iowa Western CC

GOLF

WOMEN’S GOLF WINS TITLE AT IOWA CENTRAL

DMACC- Freshman Jenny Geer of Clarinda won medalist honors with an 83 and sophomore Staci Hilgen of Marshalltown took runner-up honors with an 85 as the Des Moines Area Community College (DMACC) women’s golf team won the Iowa Central Community College (ICCC) Invitational Sept. 12 at the Fort Dodge Country Club in Fort Dodge.

DMACC had a team score of 350 and finished 17 strokes ahead of the University of Northern Iowa (UNI) and 10 strokes ahead of Mount Mercy in third place.

Other DMACC scores included a 78 by freshman Mackenzie Watts of Huxley and a 94 by freshman Kelsey Berke of Algona. Kaitlyn Frida, a freshman from Pleasantville, had a 105 for DMACC.

DMACC sophomore Anna Hoss of Spirit Lake and freshman Laura Richter of Bancroft competed individually in the tournament. Hoss finished with an 89 and Richter shot 99.

The DMACC women’s golf team will play in the Viking Classic Sept. 19 and 20 at Briarwood Country Club in Ankeny.

MEN’S GOLF WINS IOWA CENTRAL INVITATIONAL

DMACC- Freshman Nate Schall of Gosier took medalist honors with a one-over-par 72 to lead the Des Moines Area Community College (DMACC) men’s golf team to the team championship in the Iowa Central Community College (ICCC) Invitational Sept. 12 at the Fort Dodge Country Club in Fort Dodge.

The Bears completed the tournament with a score of 312, two strokes better than ICCC Blue, ICCC White finished third at 319.

Other DMACC scores included a 77 by freshman Andrew Fraser of Huxley and a 94 by freshman Matt Legman of Rannells and an 84 by sophomore Tyler Tiffany of Ogden. Sophomore Jared Thill of Pleasantville had an 85.

The DMACC men’s golf team will play in the Viking Classic Sept. 19 and 20 at Briarwood Country Club in Ankeny.

VOLLEYBALL

STATS & NEWS

OVERALL

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SCHOOL</th>
<th>OVERALL</th>
<th>GB</th>
<th>STREAK</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Kirkwood</td>
<td>14-2</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>WON 3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Western CC</td>
<td>12-4</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>WON 2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Northeastern CC</td>
<td>10-3</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>WON 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NIACC</td>
<td>8-5</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>LOST 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NICC</td>
<td>6-7</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>LOST 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dubuque CC</td>
<td>5-8</td>
<td>-</td>
<td>LOST 1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

All statistics at time of printing
Hitting the (Air) Waves

Ham radio operators use hobby to supplement cell phones

By Alayna Barnett
Staff Writer

Having roadside assistance service can be very comforting, but what everyone knows there are times when signal is unreliable. For a ham radio operator, this is much less of a problem.

Amber Dittret, licensed ham and professor here at DMACC Boone, said, “You’re never lost or a stranger if you have a radio.” She adds that there have been times when those who did not previously know have come to her aid, most notably after an auto accident when she was driving alone. A fellow ham, whom she had never spoken directly to at all, heard about the accident over the radio and came to sit with her until her husband could arrive.

The term ham originated in telegraph days, when overpowered amateur “stations” would jam transmissions from more official operators. Although the label was originally quite negative, amateurs adopted it proudly and it has over time lost the emotional overtones, according to the American Radio Relay League.

When amateur radio began, the first operators, often landline telegraphers who had gone to sea, took the language with them, and a subculture was born.

Although Citizen’s Band (CB) radio and ham radio are often thought of interchangeably, they are actually different in several ways. Ham radio operators are licensed at different levels by the Federal Communications Commission, a process that involves education and testing. CB is open to any citizen who registers their radio. CB equipment is also much lower powered, being limited to 3 watts on the AM band, where amateur radio can range up to 1000 watts. Licensed amateurs are also allowed to erect elaborate antennas to increase their range, sometimes internationally.

Brad Hansen, a truck driver from the Boone area and licensed ham, uses a CB for work-related communications, but he does on occasion bring a handheld (HT) unit into the truck. “A growing number of truckers are licensed hams,” he says, and the wider range of a handheld unit allows for more contacts, living the long days. On a more practical level, Hansen said the amateur radio weather spotting network runs year-round, where weather reports are available via CB mostly in minutes.

According to the ARRL Web site, “Amateur Radio is as old as the history of radio itself,” dating back to the 62nd Congress in 1912, when the first U.S. laws were passed regulating radio transmission. Local Iowa clubs are a bit younger, with the Boone Area Radio Klub (BARK), starting around 1951 and Story County Amateur Radio Club (SCARC) in the mid-1970s.

The FCC does not collect age information on licensees, but there are no age restrictions on becoming licensed, and children as young as 5 or 6 have been heard over the air. The airplane is an equal-opportunity play- ground, too; in 2004 13.52 percent of the 7,072 licensed operators were female.

“Women may not be the majority in ham radio,” said SCARC member Matt Steven, “but those who do participate tend to do very well.” The fact that a woman is the president of the ARRL, largest amateur radio organization in the USA, emphasizes this. “In my experience, women are enthusiastically welcomed into the community of amateur radio both on and off air,” he said.

Another common point of confusion is where hams actually are. The FCC lists licensed hams in all 50 states, but the amateur radio community is wider than that. Not every nation regulates their radio traffic the way the United States does, but currently only the governments of Yemen and North Korea actually prohibit their citizens from getting on the air, and there are confirmed contacts in every other place in the world. In fact, many hams create “calling cards” to exchange so they can keep track of their contacts in places near and far. Specific community events, such as the upcoming Thomas the Tank Engine day, even get their own special cards to commemorate such contacts.

Having a license and a radio has a more serious side as well. When Hurricane Katrina struck and decimated communications, hundreds of ham radio operators traveled from all over, donating not only their time but also hundreds of thousands of dollars in equipment to recovery operations. Before tragedy strikes, even, the Amateur Radio Emergency Service (ARES), which has both state and local chapters, offers weather spotting training to hams wishing to help the National Weather Service track storms and other severe weather phenomena. To stay in practice and further reach out to the community, operators serve at local events; for example, SCARC recently provided spotters for the Great Ames Adventure Race.

Story County residents looking for more information should contact the Story County Amateur Radio Club at http://www.wbyl.com/; those in the Boone area, the Boone Area Radio Klub [http://www.qsl.net/kb0tlm/].

Both sites contain links to people who can answer any questions regarding licensing, equipment, or any other aspect of the ham radio experience.

---

Former baseball player steps to plate as coach

By Kevin Langel
Editor-in-Chief

Kyle Hanna wasn’t away from DMACC for more than three years before returning, this time as an employee, not as a student.

“I’ve played and been around baseball my whole life,” said Hanna, who played baseball for the Bears for two years before transferring to Simpson, where he played for two more years.

“I enjoy learning about the game and being able to teach, so I am blessed to have this opportunity,” said Hanna. With the resignation of former assist coach Blake Lambert, DMACC hired Hanna over the summer as the new assistant coach and recruiting coordinator for the new baseball season, now under way.

“I am happy to see former students come back,” said Orv Salmon, director of athletics. I think it is extra special because he is a former student of DMACC and a former athlete.

Hanna, who has lived in Ankeny since he was 12 graduated from Ankeny High School in 2006. He played baseball all four years of high school.

---

Kyle Hanna (right), new asst. baseball coach and recruiting coordinator and Orv Salmon, director of athletics at DMACC.

While he was in college he coached baseball for Indianapolis and North Polk High Schools and also coached for one year at Simpson while he finished his degree.

Hanna graduated from Simpson with degrees in sports administration and coaching.

“He is a good coach and knows how to relate to us,” said Alex Crawford and blonde Reusrey, both pitchers for the Bears. “He knows what he is talking about and is motivated.”

In his free time, Hanna enjoys all sports. He likes to be active by bike riding, working out, being with friends and family, going places and seeing people.

“I really enjoy the people that I work with,” said Hanna. “I work with an awesome staff and faculty and everyone is willing to help out. It is the same as when I was a student here. Everyone wants the best for you and I am experiencing the same thing as coming back as an employee.”

---

Hitting a base in the eighth inning, Kyle Hanna (left) hits a home run to help the Bears win over Central Methodist University, 2-1, at the DMACC Softball Field Saturday afternoon.

---

Amber Dittret, adjunct math instructor, uses her ham radio.

---

Kyle Hanna at a glance

Played at DMACC: 2006 - 08
Position: Pitcher
Played at Simpson: 2009 - 10
Honors earned: 2 year letter winner
Coaching experience: North Polk and Indianola
High Schools, Simpson College
Family: mom (Grimes), dad (Ohio), older brother (Minneapolis)
Hobbies: riding bikes, working out, being with friends and family, going places, seeing people
Iowa through outside eyes

By Alayna Barnett, Staff Writer

Growing up in California leaves one with a certain ge- netic sense of the world, namely that it’s made up of “us” and “them” (any other state) with definite preference for “us.”

This made my decision to leave California after completing my associate’s arts degree this past May odd to say the least, but the San Francisco Bay Area is an expensive place to live, especially when you’re a single mother.

As much as I loved it there, I was tired of going from one bad relationship to another in order to stay there. I admit, I heard an awful lot of, “You’re mov- ing….where?” from my family and friends—often in those exact words—but I was determined, and I managed to convince them that I wasn’t totally out of my mind and that I wasn’t going to change.

I didn’t really know a lot about Iowa when I got on that plane, but my rootless early life as an Army brat coupled with price experiences in smaller towns left me certain I would spend a long time very aware that I was, “well, not us.” I could not have been more wrong.

One of the first things I did when I got here was join the local Freecycle community [www. freecycle.org] and where people found out I’d moved with al- most nothing their generosity astounded me. Needful items for our new place, including bakeware, Tupperware, blankets, winter gear, and even embroidery supplies to feed my hobby came pouring in. More important (to me at least) were the advice and well-wishes that came with the “stuff” from related problems and friendship.

I’m “not from here” are mostly friendly. Being from the less-than-affluent areas of California (yes, we have those, even in the Silicone Valley) I have a certain inherent wariness in a new en- vironment. I’m just not used to getting out on foot until I’m well familiar with an area, but it was only days after my arrival that I was out exploring my new neigh- borhood.

The school has been another revelation. Although I knew before making my final decision that ISU has a top-ranked post- grad psych program, I still wasn’t prepared for the extraordinary quality of the educational pro- grams here. DMACC’s teachers and classes could easily go head- to-head with my former college, and in some cases would outshine them.

It’s not just the college, either—my son attends Ames Middle School, and the staff and curricu- lum there has amazed me as well. He has some special educational needs, and over the years I’ve heard horror story after night- mare tale from parents around the country about the fights they’ve had to go through to get needed accommodations for their children. There has been none of that here.

Before I even arrived, the Special Education Coordinator for Ames was wonderful, reviewing his needs and helping me understand how the staff would be able to meet them, as well as being sure I knew what would be different. Since we arrived, there has been nothing but support in this time of transition, and abso- lute respect for the enormity of the change both he and I are un- dergoing.

When I decided on Ames as my destination, part of my de- cision was to find somewhere my de- sires and responsibilities differ. I felt that my son and I both needed a chance to start over, in a place where we could each make new and hopefully healthier choices for our children. So far that’s what we’ve found. May be “not us” isn’t such a bad thing to be after all.

---

Raising Awareness and Promoting Prevention - Part 2

By Lori Harvey

Health Writer

In the last issue I talked about stranger rape and how to protect yourself. This issue will talk about date and acquaintance rape.

Ninety percent of rape victims know their attackers. It could be a boyfriend, a friend or someone they knew in some other capacity.

It doesn’t matter how you dress, how you behave or how you talk. If you say no, it means no. A person never asks to be raped.

Many of you are probably asking how I know so much about this topic. I was a victim twice over and survived. I counseled a girl in our teen youth group after she was attacked by a minister’s son. I refused to let the topic rest, and we were excommunicated by our church as a result. It took over a year to get her to open up to me so that she could start the process of healing. Today she is a great mom with two beautiful children.

This is why counseling is so important. The biggest thing to remem- ber is that you are not to blame. You did nothing wrong. To the significant other, don’t blame yourself or her. Be there for sup- port, a listening ear and a shoul- der to cry on. Let her lead the way if & when she decides to resume intimacy. The physical wounds will heal quickly but the psychological ones will take longer.

Next time you go out on a date or just a night on the town, here are some tips to keep in mind.

Try to let people know where you are going, who you are with and about what time you will be home. This way when you are running late, your friends will have a good idea of how much time has passed from the time you said you were going to be home until help has been called in.

If you have a cell phone, keep it with you and on at all times. If you don’t answer your phone, the police can work with your cell phone provider and trace your lo- cation by pinging your cell phone. This pinging can get your location to within a 15-block radius of your location. If you are unable to answer your cell phone, the po- lice will have a good location to start looking if you don’t answer your phone or respond to your voice mails.

If you are in a bar, keep your drink in eyesight and don’t accept a drink that doesn’t come from a bartender. It might be spiked with something you don’t want to put in your body.

Know your limit and stick to it. This way you don’t have to accept a ride home. Give your- self plenty of time between your last drink and closing time or the time you decide to head home. If you do drink a little too much, have the bartender call you a cab or wait until you sober up enough to drive yourself home. Never ac- cept a ride home from somebody unless you know them extremely well and know they won’t take ad- vantage of the situation.

If your car won’t start after a call, call a tow truck or the po- lice. Either will usually get you home or to a safe location so you can make new healthier choices.

Hopefully you keep these suggestions in mind but most im- portantly I hope you realize there are resources available to you. ACCESS in Ames is available 24/7 at 1-800-293-3488.

---

Ask Tasha

Tasha Rohrer
Staff Writer

Dear Readers,

I am writing the Banner News’ new advice column. This is a place where students can submit questions about things that might be bothering them. As an advice columnist I am not here to judge you. I will keep an open mind and open heart. I started working on my first column my freshmen year in college because friends often told me I was easy to talk to and they felt like my advice was useful in life. My hope for this column is that I can help you find answers. For example you can ask for advice on relationship issues, school-related problems and friendship problems. Please sign your questions with your name, but if requested you may be asked to remain anonymous in publication. To submit a question to be reviewed, e-mail the Banner News at bannernews@dmacc. edu.

Here is an example:

---

Dear Tasha,

My roommate and I haven’t been getting along and we fight all the time. To make things worse now I am finding stuff missing in my room. What should I do?

---

Concerned Roommate

Tasha

---

I’m not from here” are mostly friendly. Being from the less-than-affluent areas of California (yes, we have those, even in the Silicone Valley) I have a certain inherent wariness in a new environment. I’m just not used to getting out on foot until I’m well familiar with an area, but it was only days after my arrival that I was out exploring my new neighborhood.

The school has been another revelation. Although I knew before making my final decision that ISU has a top-ranked post-grad psych program, I still wasn’t prepared for the extraordinary quality of the educational programs here. DMACC’s teachers and classes could easily go head-to-head with my former college, and in some cases would outshine them.

It’s not just the college, either—my son attends Ames Middle School, and the staff and curriculum there has amazed me as well. He has some special educational needs, and over the years I’ve heard horror story after nightmare tale from parents around the country about the fights they’ve had to go through to get needed accommodations for their children. There has been none of that here.

Before I even arrived, the Special Education Coordinator for Ames was wonderful, reviewing his needs and helping me understand how the staff would be able to meet them, as well as being sure I knew what would be different. Since we arrived, there has been nothing but support in this time of transition, and absolute respect for the enormity of the change both he and I are undergoing.

When I decided on Ames as my destination, part of my desire was to find somewhere my desires and responsibilities differ. I felt that my son and I both needed a chance to start over, in a place where we could each make new and hopefully healthier choices for our children. So far that’s what we’ve found. May be “not us” isn’t such a bad thing to be after all.

---

Have an opinion?
Submit letters to the editor to bannernews@dmacc.edu. Remember, letters must be signed.
MCT

Today's Birthday (09/28/11). When in doubt, follow your heart. In business, diversify your interests for a variety of possibilities. In love, notice the blissful moments, and leave distractions aside. Cherish your precious time together, and let folks know how much they mean to you.

Aries (March 21-April 19) -- Today is an 8 -- Love is the game and the prize, and you're playing marvelously. Stick to the rules, and acknowledge other players. Get stuck in one view, and you can't find a balance. Open up.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) -- Today is an 8 -- A dull morning allows for focus. Your fortunes increase as you set juicy goals and meet them. Meet with important people for a mutually beneficial plan.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) -- Today is an 8 -- Get something you've always wanted, and dismiss a new true love. Line up your plans in this new direction. A brilliant idea puts coins into your pocket.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) -- Today is an 8 -- Elders are in a good mood. Send in with a cup of tea and a nice view to handle practical tasks. Practice frugality.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) -- Today is an 8 -- Stick to common sense. You're gaining status. An authority communicates a transition. Recognize the situation. Work smarter, not harder. Find another source of revenue. Home feeds your spirit.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- Today is a 9 -- Accept money with grace. It's time to put the pedal to the metal, but don't stress about it. Count your blessings. You get more than you asked for.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) -- Today is a 9 -- Go ahead and take pride in your accomplishments. Make sure that you show the team your appreciation. Together, you can weather any changes. Celebrate.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) -- Today is an 8 -- Get into your research, and use it to revise your plans. Distance interaction might be delayed. You're exceptionally cute now. This is good, as there's a party ahead!

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- Today is an 8 -- Love is the game and the prize, and you're playing marvelously. Stick to the rules, and acknowledge other players. Get stuck in one view, and you can't find a balance. Open up.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) -- Today is a 7 -- Conquer new territories through discipline and focus. Breakdowns could occur with sending signals. Accept a partner's suggestion. Pay back a debt.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) -- Today is a 5 -- Conflict abounds. You could run away from it, or confront it and gain wisdom.

MHO

(Your Humble Opinion)

Need a place to blow off some steam? Maybe make a shout out or two?
The Banner News MHO is a place that’s dedicated to you. Place your opinions and shout-outs in the mailbox outside room 115, and we’ll do our best to get your word out in this space.

Today is an 8 -- Focus on personal growth. Sugar daddies are in evidence.

- Classy

*Submissions may be public or anonymous

- Anon

*All entries should be tasteful

*All items are printed at the discretion of the Banner Staff

Constitution Day
September 19, 2011

Student Alayna Barnett heads for the stage with Iowa State University Police Capt. Aaron DeLashmutt. As part of this staged event, Capt. DeLashmutt requested to search Barnett’s computer after a “bomb concern” was called in. Barnett was “suspected” of Googling the terms bomb-making materials and Columbine.

Student Kevin Langel with Officer Mike Frazier and K9 Schocker after Langel’s vehicle was searched as part of a staged event for Constitution Day.

Prior to the demonstration, Officer Frazier planted a heroin-scented towel inside the vehicle. Schocker found the towel inside the passenger door within seconds.

Boone Farmers’ Market
Thursday 3 to 6 p.m.
WalMart parking lot

Boone Area Humane Society
Paws in the Park
Saturday, Oct. 1, 8 a.m.
McHose Park

Ogden Oktoberfest
Sunday, Oct. 2, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.
City Park (north of the west Fourth Street train crossing)

Seven Oaks Friday After Five
Friday, Oct. 7
Seven Oaks Recreation (1086 22nd Drive, west of Boone on Hwy 30)
ph: 515-432-9457

Family Overnight Campout
Oct. 7-8
6 p.m. to 9:30 a.m.
Don Williams Park (610 H Ave., 5 miles north of Ogden on P70)

Pumpkin Express Train
Saturday, Oct. 8, 10 a.m.
Tuesday, Oct. 11, 6 p.m.
Iowa Railroad Historical Society (225 10th St.)
Boone
ph: 800-626-0319

Canoe the Lake
Saturday, Oct. 8, 10 a.m. to noon
Don Williams Park (610 H Ave., 5 miles north of Ogden on P70)

Ogden